

We have moved!

We have moved to new offices in Belfast, providing increased office space and a more modern office environment for our staff and customers. The new premises at the recently renovated Aisling House are the enhanced headquarters for Latens global activities.

The additional space also provides enhanced working facilities, state of the art meeting rooms, and conferencing and demo facilities. Anne Gallagher, General Manager of the Belfast headquarters said: "As a result of rapid and continued growth in the past few years we are moving offices to accommodate our growing staff and business needs. Our new offices have allowed us to create a vastly improved working environment for our staff, and provide us with the opportunity for continued growth and expansion in the future."
