

Women In Wireless Program

- CommScope strongly supports equal opportunity for all people. One of the ways we show our support is by offering free wireless training to women in the wireless industry or with a wireless background who want to expand their knowledge and capabilities in the world of wireless communications.
- CommScope is proud to have the Women In Wireless (WIW) program in place to offer training to interested women who are working within our partner organizations – customers, installers, systems integrators—and who meet certain requirements. They can complete a variety of courses and even become certified for free by attending and completing the requisite training classes on CommScope’s DAS, Small Cell, CBRS and Repeater solutions.
